The following excerpt is taken from the SCENE AROUND column by Gloria Yousha appearing in the HERITAGE FLORIDA NEWS, May 13, 2011

I make several trips to South America to record CDs, the country of Brazil to be exact. On one of those visits, LISETTE HALPERN, asked me if I could try to find her long lost cousin. She believed that her cousin lived in Brazil. I wasn't successful in finding her.

She wasn't living in Brazil as Lisette had thought. She was living in New York!

After searching for 50 years, believing her cousin lived in South America, LISETTE was reunited with BETTY KAPON, her father's brother's daughter. Betty has lived in New York for the past 20 years.

Betty was only 2 years old when she left Egypt. Lisette left Alexandria, Egypt in 1956. Kapon is Lisette's maiden name.

Betty came to visit Lisette, Lisette's husband, EDDIE HALPERN, and their family in Maitland, recently. She stayed for three days.

Lisette said she was very grateful to Carl and also that she and Betty "had a lot of catching up to do."

However, CARL MIGDEN of the Jewish Genealogical Society of Greater Orlando was. Upon learning of Lisette's long search, he used the computer and found her cousin.

WHERE WILL NEXT YEARS LEADERS COME FROM?

By Jerry Kurland

The positions of our organization are:

1. PRESIDENT
2. VICE PRESIDENT ( PROGRAMS)
3. VICE PRESIDENT (MEMBERSHIP).
4. SECRETARY.
5. TREASURER
6. LIBRARIAN
7. CO-WEBMASTER
6. 2 DIRECTORS

In the past JGSGO has been fortunate to have had a dedicated group of leaders that willingly served for one, two or three year terms and more. Some of these offices will be again be filled by incumbents, but not all.

For each position, we have the people to train you. You will have guidance to help you with your duties. 2012 is the year for you to volunteer to take a leadership role in JGSGO. You will not be alone; advice and assistance is available.

Only you can make it happen. JGSGO needs you , to step forward, to keep JGSGO a viable leader in Genealogy research. Become an Officer, to lead JGSGO in 2012.

You will be contacted by the nominating committee but advance volunteering is greatly appreciated. Please contact: Jerry Kurland, JGSGO, Director, at surrealgraphics@embarqmail.com

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Raeburn Wallen

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE? As genealogist's we have always had this question in our minds as we researched our heritage. But now we have a popular prime time television program starting its second season asking a similar question, usually on Friday nights. For those of you who have missed it, you may view it on NBC's website www.nbc.com/who-do-you-think-you-are/.

Using profiles of celebrities, it shows how to start your research. It started with the researchers being tapping into JRI-Poland's online database in documenting Gwyneth Paltrow's Polish ancestry. This website had 90 record entries for her and she discovered much information about her past. The Paltrow family's original name was PALTROWICZ, a rabbinical family from northeastern Poland, specifically Suwalki, Lomza and other towns. The U.S. born daughter of producer Bruce Paltrow ("St. Elsewhere," "The White Shadow"), Gwyneth was excited with her discovery. The www.jri-poland data base is hosted by JewishGen, and its contents are a service to researchers.

Each week the show profiles famous people and has included Vanessa Williams, Brooke Shields, Rosie O'Donnell, Kim Cantrell, and Lionel Ritchie. Each of them found amazing things that they had not known: for instance, O'Donnell discovered that her family lived in an Irish poorhouse; Ritchie found that his great-grandfather was an early civil rights leader.

The following information is from the website TRACING THE TRIBE, the Jewish Genealogy Blog.

"Founded in 1995, JRI-Poland was an outgrowth of Montrealer Stanley Diamond's need for access to Jewish vital records of the former Lomza Gubernia area of Poland for research into his family's genetic history. Diamond is Executive Director and the organization has a global board, hundreds of volunteers serving thousands of researchers, funded by groups and genealogists around the world. JRI-Poland is creating searchable on-line indices of Jewish records from current and former territories of Poland. The vast database of records going back to the late 18th century belies the misleading notion all the Jewish records of Poland were destroyed in World War II. The searchable database has indices to 4.2 million records from more than 550 towns, with thousands added every month, vital records and censuses from the Polish State Archives and other sources both inside and outside of Poland. The database also includes army draft lists, cemetery burial indices, ghetto death records, birth, marriage and death announcements in newspapers in Poland, and more.

JRI-Poland has been recognized by the medical and scientific communities for the potential benefit for Ashkenazic families trying to trace medical histories, particularly those at increased risk for hereditary conditions and diseases. As a result of statistical analyses indicating a high incidence of medical and genetic abnormalities in individuals of Polish-Jewish descent, JRI - Poland is creating a finding aid for those who may need answers to medical-related questions or require bone marrow or other transplants. Because of this, JRI-Poland has received commendations from the Gift of Life Foundation and the National Marrow Donor Program"

TECHNOLOGY AND GENEALOGY

BY RAE WALLEN

Have you ever thought that technology has passed you by? When I recently switched to a DROID cell telephone, I had a terrible time even turning it off and on. Learning the new commands for the telephone was difficult for me, as I'm used to just picking up a phone, dialing and talking to whomever I have called.

While my grandchildren were visiting me, a six-year-old and a nine-year-old, I was embarrassed that they knew more about the Droid than I did. They put all my contacts in and explained how I was to go to a certain place on the Droid in order to dial them. When I would ask a question, "how did you do that?" They would say, "Oh grandpa, it is easy. Just watch", and they would do it again. And I would say, "You go too fast for me". They would giggle and I would say, "Technology has passed me by". They downloaded applications that I can use to contact various websites. Grandchildren are great, and smarter than grandpa.

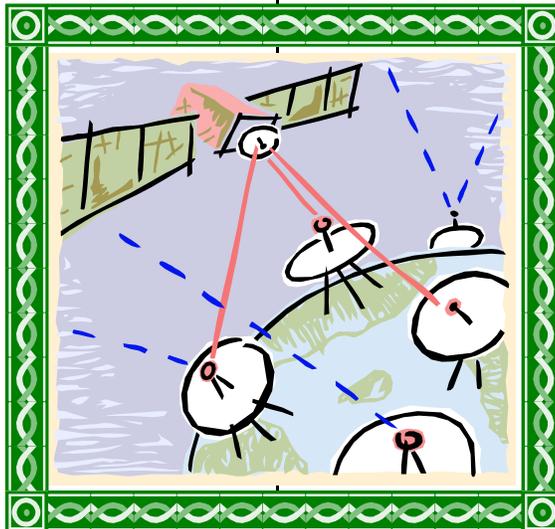

It was amazing to me, while we visited my son and his wife's brother, they used Skype to contact their daughter in Japan. When the tsunami and the nuclear event occurred, they used Skype to talk directly with their daughter and granddaughter in Japan to see if she was all right. My wife and I watched the screen across the room and were amazed at how the communication was done. One would talk, and then switch to where the other one talked; the questions were answered and the daughter described how she escaped the damage that was caused to her home. Even though this was an emergency, later I began to wonder if Skype could be used with genealogy.

I read an article in Internet Genealogy (April-May, 2011) by Lisa Alzo, and how she used Skype to discuss with her family their genealogy. She says, "Skype enables you to make free Internet calls to another Skype user anywhere in the world." You can use it to call friends and family on ANY PHONE by signing up for either the pay-as-you-go or pay monthly subscription. Skype is free on the Internet and you should use it to call relatives.

It is a wonderful device to use for genealogy as you can ask all of your direct questions about their ancestors and get an answer immediately. Even if the families are far away overseas one can contact them and gather information. A telephone call overseas is very expensive but Skype allows you to talk to them with no charge. It is a joy to talk to the parents and grandparents in a regular call, but with Skype all my free calls make it easy to contact them. Lisa says that she talked to her relative in London for three hours. And it was all free.

Relatives can download Skype for free. If both of you have Skype then the communication is very easy, and with a computer you also have a visual of the person to whom you are talking. They tell me that you can even make a copy of your visual consultations. However, I have not mastered that. I will have to wait for another visit from my grandchildren.

LIBRARY PAGE

Donations to the library fund in memory of Jay Schleichkorn were $553.00 from 23 single or couple donors. $149.08 was spent for two new bookcases from the money and $150 was set aside for plaques and signs to be purchased or made by Jerry Kurland. The remaining amount was spent to buy five books from AVOTANU in memory of Jay. They are:

WHERE ONCE WE WALKED, NEWEST ADDITION, $85

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF THE HOLOCAUST, three volumes, $99

PRACTICAL GUIDE TO CEMETERIES, $39.00

Including shipping and handling charges the total to Avotanu was $243. This leaves the balance of $10.92 in the fund.

We thank all those who donated to this fund to honor our wonderful and talented member, Jay, after his death last year. We also appreciate the many items that Jay had kept on genealogy given to the library by his widow and her family.

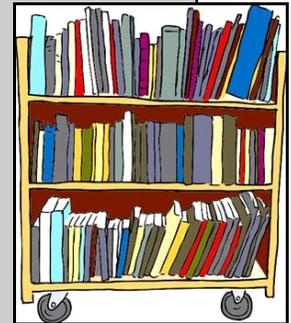

You have probably heard about the terrible roof leak behind our filing cabinets in our section of the CRJ library. It soaked all the large posters Jay had made over the years that were standing between the files and the wall. They could not be saved. What was not soaked was covered in mold. The mold problem in the library from previous leaks and this one, will be eradicated sometime this Spring or Summer. The new roof will be put on first and then the interior will be fixed. Luckily none of our books were wet. The main CRJ library on the east side of the room lost many books from a previous leak. Many of our books are out of print and are valuable. We may have to invest in an insurance policy sometime in the near future as CRJ's insurance has a high deductible.

We have 386 books in our library. It must be one of the largest Jewish genealogical libraries in central Florida. In Gladys Paulin's report on our library in 1996 she listed 70 books. And in 1998 we had 117. We have greatly increased the number of books in 13 years from donations and purchases.

We greatly appreciate the generosity of those who contributed to our success. We extend to CRJ a special thanks for providing the corner for our materials rent-free.

Raeburn and I will fly to Ohio, our other home, but will keep in touch and return the first week of September. Have a great Summer.

Marcie Wallen, Volunteer Librarian

Online Video Courses

FamilySearch now offers 81 free lessons on FamilySearch.org, enabling people anywhere in the world to access family history expertise any time. The topics range from basic research to training on specific record types and can be beneficial to both beginners and experienced researchers. Most of the classes come from research consultants in the world-famous Family History Library in Salt Lake City, but FamilySearch is also now working with partners to broaden the pool of expertise.

For example, Family Search worked with the Mid-Continent Public Library in Independence, Missouri to record and post 12 classes. These classes are available on both FamilySearch.org and the Midwest Genealogy Center's site. Such collaboration benefits everyone involved, according to Darin Hakes with FamilySearch Community Services.

Midwest Genealogy Center librarian Janice Schultz agrees that partnering with FamilySearch increases their reach.

"The online classes allow people to attend no matter where they live," Schultz said. "It helps us achieve our mission of educating genealogists. We have received many positive comments about these classes."

In addition to the Mid-Continent Public Library, FamilySearch is working with the Association of Professional Genealogists, the Board of Certified Genealogists, and the International Commission for the Accreditation of Professional Genealogists. Individual genealogists may also use FamilySearch's free services to record and share their presentations.

Upcoming FamilySearch classes will focus on U.S. courthouse research and a series of courses for those just getting started in family history research. There are also more interactive classes planned on reading handwritten records in different languages, a list that now includes Dutch, French, Italian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, and Spanish. All of the classes can be accessed on www.familysearch.org by clicking on Free Online Classes on the home page.

IN OUR LIBRARY – “WHERE ONCE WE WALKED”

The revised addition of WHERE ONCE WE WALKED is now in our library.

A Guide to the Jewish Communities Destroyed in the Holocaust

Revised Edition

by Gary Mokotoff and Sallyann Sack with Alexander Sharon

The award-winning Where Once We Walked (WOWW) has been completely revised and updated to reflect the changes in the political geography of Central and Eastern Europe since WOWW was published in 1991. There are also a number of improvements to the original edition noted below. The new edition identifies more than 23,500 towns in Central and Eastern Europe where Jews lived before the Holocaust. The index includes 17,500 alternate names including Yiddish, pre-World War I, interwar and post-world War II names. Gives latitude/longitude, Jewish population before the Holocaust and cites as many as 50 books that reference the town. A soundex index allows locating the town when only how to pronounce the name is known.

There are numerous improvements to the original Where Once We Walked (WOWW) in Where Once We Walked: Revised Edition (WOWW-RE)

- 4,500 more synonyms.
- Hundreds of towns located. Hundreds of towns that could not be located in WOWW have now been located and their exact latitudes/longitudes have been added.
- 800 towns added.
- Town names changed to contemporary names. With the collapse of the Soviet Union, thousands of town names in Belarus and Ukraine have been changed from their Russian names to Byelorussian and Ukrainian names. For example, Grodno, Byelorussian SSR, is now Hrodna, Belarus. Kamenets Podolskiy, Ukrainian SSR, is now Kam"yanets'-Podil's'kyy, Ukraine. WOWW-RE reflects the town names as they exist today, and the Russian names for these towns are now identified as synonyms.

- Expanded and improved soundex.
- Diacritic marks added to town names.
- Integration of WOWW Companion. Avotaynu has previously published another book titled WOWW Companion, that made it possible to determine which towns listed in WOWW were in the vicinity of a particular shtetl. We have incorporated an updated version of this entire work into WOWW-RE.
- Eleven new sources of information about the Jews of Central and Eastern Europe have been added
- Many original sources have been updated
- Contemporary countries identified.
- Latitude/longitudes corrected.
- Regional names included
Sometimes what is perceived as the name of a town, is, in fact, the name of a region. We have included 45 regional names such as Banat, Bavaria, Bessarabia, Bohemia, Dalmatia, Franconia, Galicia, Gubernia, Kurland, Lietuva, Moravia, Podolia, Pommerania, Prussia, Transylvania, Volyn, and Westphalia to name a few.

Registering Your Copyright

At our May meeting, Edith Schulman, a past president of JGSGO gave a presentation on Registering Your Copyright of interest to members who may be writing books.

Copyright is a set of exclusive rights granted to the author or creator of an original work—including the right to copy, distribute and adapt the work. Copyright does not protect ideas, only their expression.

Copyright now covers a wide range of works, including maps, sheet music, dramatic works, paintings, photographs, architectural drawings, sound recordings, motion pictures, computer programs, and, of course, books and articles.

First a little history of copyrighting...

The origin of copyright law in most European countries lies in efforts by the church and government to regulate and control printing. Before the invention of the printing press a writing, once created, could only be physically multiplied by the highly laborious and error-prone process of manual copying by scribes. Governments established controls over printers across Europe, requiring them to have official licenses to trade and produce books. The licenses typically gave printers the exclusive right to print particular works for a fixed period of years. Thus enabling the printer to prevent others from printing or importing the same work during that period.

Early French Copyright Laws

In pre-revolutionary France all books needed to be approved by official censors and authors and publishers had to obtain a royal privilege before a book could be published. Royal privileges were exclusive and usually granted for six years, with the possibility of renewal. Over time it was established that the owner of a royal privilege had the sole right to obtain a renewal indefinitely.

In 1761 the Royal Council awarded a royal privilege to the heirs of an author's publisher.

In 1777 a series of royal decrees reformed the royal privilege. The duration of privileges were set at a minimum duration of 10 years or the life of the author, whichever was longer. If the author obtained a privilege and did not transfer or sell it on, he could publish and sell copies of the book himself, and pass the privilege on to his heirs. The royal decrees prohibited the renewal of privileges and once the privilege had expired anyone could obtain a permission simple to print or sell copies of the work.

In 1783 a new law was passed in France giving authors, composers, and artists the exclusive right to sell and distribute their works, and the right was extended to their heirs for 10 years after the death of the author.

English Copyright Laws...

In England the printers, known as Stationers, formed a collective organization, known as the Stationers' Company. In the 16th century, the Stationers' Company was given the power to require all lawfully printed books to be entered into its register. Only members of the Stationers' Company could enter books into the register. This meant that the Stationers' Company achieved a dominant position over publishing in 17th century England. The monopoly came to an end in 1694, when the English Parliament did not renew the Stationers Company's power.

The newly established Parliament of Great Britain passed the first copyright statute, and called it-- the Statute of Anne.

The coming into force of the Statute of Anne in April 1710 marked a historic moment in the development of copyright law. As the world's first copyright statute, it granted publishers of a book legal protection of 14 years with the commencement of the statute. It also granted 21 years of protection for any book already in print.

The Statute of Anne did not apply to the American colonies. The colonies' economy was largely agrarian, hence copyright law was not a priority. In 1783 several authors' petitions persuaded the Continental Congress "that nothing is more properly a man's own than the fruit of his study, and that the protection and security of literary property would greatly tend to encourage genius"...But under the Articles of Confederation, the Continental Congress had no authority to issue a copyright, instead it passed a resolution encouraging the States to

“secure to the authors the copyright of such books for a certain time...”

At the Constitutional Convention of 1787 both James Madison of Virginia and Charles Pinchney of South Carolina submitted proposals that would allow Congress the power to grant copyright for a limited time. These proposals are the origin of the Copyright Clause in the United States Constitution, which allows the granting of copyrights and patents for a limited time. The first federal copyright act, the Copyright Act of 1790, granted copyright for a term of 14 years from the time the title was recorded, with a right of renewal for another 14 years if the author survived to the end of the first 14 years.

The act covered not only books, but also maps and charts. With exception of the provision on maps and charts the Copyright Act of 1790 is copied almost verbatim from the Statue of Anne.

Copyright subsists for different lengths of time in different places. In the U. S., the term for most existing works now is for a term ending 70 years after the death of the author.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF COPYRIGHT REGISTRATION?

1. It establishes a public record of your copyright.
2. Registration provides powerful ammunition against potential infringement.
3. If you don't register your copyright and someone else claims your work as their own, you will have to prove that it is actually yours, and finally...

4. Copyright encourages creativity by giving exclusive property rights to the author.

You must register your copyright through the U.S. Copyright Office at the Library of Congress. The address is: Library of Congress, Copyright Office, 101 Independence Avenue S.E., Washington, DC 20559-6000

Phone # (202) 707-3000.

But it is cheaper to get a copyright via email than by snail mail. Go to Copyright.gov. Online the cost is $35. By sending the book and form via snail mail, the cost is $69. If you apply online, the average processing time is 3.3 months, although you might receive your certificate earlier.

Not only does snail mail cost more, but the average processing time 11.5 months, although here again, you may receive your certificate earlier.

If you apply online to get a copyright registration, you will receive an email stating that your application has been received.

(Edith Schulman has just completed the story of her ancestors, and she calls it: La Dor V'Dor From Generation to Generation. It is subtitled: The story of My Ancestors—The Bissingers, The Lefkovits, The Levicks and The Solomons.)

HOW TO CREATE, SET UP, AND ORGANIZE YOUR OWN 30 Minute “ShtetLinks” a town where your ancestor lived.

Marlis Humphrey, Ukraine SIG Project Coordinator, and a member of the Jewish Genealogical Society of Greater Orlando, will be the guest speaker at the next JGSGO meeting at 2:00 P.M. Tuesday, June 28 in the “Goldman Social Hall” “at Congregation of Reform Judaism in Orlando. Humphrey will use CRJ’s Internet On-Line connections and Web sites projected on an overhead screen to demonstrate how you can develop elegant and professional web pages honoring your shtetl. No longer do you need to know html. If you can “drag and drop” and “copy and paste”. JewishGen hosts websites that commemorate any town where Jews lived. These websites, or “ShtetLinks”, are created by anyone with an interest. Some are very detailed, while some provide a basic site which can grow over time.

If a ShtetLink does not exist for your ancestral shtetl(s), now is the time to create one in 30 minutes. Marlis will demonstrate through the interactive example sites and discuss available tools, tips, guidelines and resources. Then together, Marlis will create a ShtetLink website in 30 minutes.

Marlis Glaser Humphrey is the industry’s foremost expert on next generation family history publishing. She has applied her 20+ years experience in broadband communications, technology, marketing, and strategic planning to the genealogy world. Marlis is Project Coordinator of the Ukraine-SIG, Ancestor Road Show Consultant at the Indian River County Library Genealogy Department and member of the NGS, APG, FGS, JGSGO, IRGS, and LitvakSIG. She has discovered the shtetls of all her great grandparents, contacted cousins in more than a dozen states, and is blessed to have found a great aunt who is 89 and another who is 98! Her daughter is a member of the DAR and the Mayflower Society. Marlis has approached genealogy with a unique perspective on how advances in multimedia applications can enrich our sharing of family history.

Letter of Thanks

Dear JGSGO Members,

Thank you for inviting me to speak at your meeting last March 29th. I was honored to present my experiences with self-publishing, and to share my personal journey through surviving breast cancer. In addition to the warm welcome I received, your presentation of the framed Certificate of Recognition as a Guest Speaker Honorarium was an unexpected surprise. The precious plaque survived the trip back to Cincinnati, and is now displayed proudly in my office.

I cherish the conversations I had with so many individuals before and after the meeting. You touched my life with your own personal stories, and insatiable curiosity. I am humbled to be a part of such a caring and gifted group. As I have reflected about that special Tuesday afternoon, I realize the significance of how our genealogical histories are powerful tools of reference for our future generations. Publishing is one way to insure that this vital information is passed on. Even though we all share a common destiny, our legacies live forever.→

July	No Meeting
August	No Meeting
Sept.	Websites, Flatbed Scanner, Photo Stitching, Collecting & Saving Items. (Tom Hirsch)
Oct.	Ann Osisek (Maitland)
Nov.	To be arranged
Dec.	JGSGO Social & Installment of 2012 Officers & “ Genealogy of Broadway ” (Rae Wallen)

For me, publishing “Life Without Nipples”, provided an opportunity to not only share my conviction about survival and speak to my future generations, but to offer an inspiration to others that we MUST continue the research that will enrich the health of our sons and daughters. Our mission is clear—we must NEVER give up.

Thank you again for your hospitality! I am grateful to be a member of such a wonderful organization. And I look forward to seeing you all again very soon!

Sincerely,
 Tammy Michelle
